Meeting Location: In-person meeting

Meeting Summary: The main discussion was basically me walking through the entire website and asking for any feedback. She had been very involved in the entire process, so nothing was new. I talked about the expo and said that the only suggestions were adding an 'Out of Stock' below the price instead of having to click it, and that someone wasn't a fan of the blue color of the buttons and suggested orange or pink. She agreed with the out-of-stock but wanted the blue color to be kept, as that was her desire for UI input. She also wanted a message saying if something is out of stock to message her, as she can make more.

Meeting changes:

Add OOS message on item card. I will implement this by just adding more text below the price and checking the value stored in the database

Add a message where she can make more items if it is out of stock. This will be done by just adding new text below the category options on the product page.
